Thinking Out Loud

By H. M. L.

Dr. George Gallup, famed director of the American Institute of Public Opinion, in a recent report, says that a state-wide survey of Ohio, shows the voters there to be leaning markedly toward Wendell Willkie in the presidential race. His last poll taken three weeks ago, more than half of it before the Willkie acceptance speech, shows President Roosevelt scoring but 47 to Willkie's 53 per cent. This result indicates a sharp recession in Roosevelt's popularity since 1936 when the President carried Ohio by 61 per cent.

Dr. Gallup then comments that Ohio is an important state as a general index of the trend of political opinion in the nation. Ohio cast its electoral votes on the winning side in every election since 1900. This means, says Dr. Gallup, that one who had correctly forecast the vote of Ohio in the past 10 national elections would have been picking the national winner as well. He does not guarantee that Ohio will always serve as a national indicator of the national winner, but in the last election the Roosevelt percentage in Ohio was 61 as against his national percentage of the total vote of 62.5, a difference of only 1.5 per cent.

A notable feature of this recent Gallup poll is the revelation of rural and small town defection. Towns under 100,000 and the agricultural counties show a drop from 57 per cent in 1936 to 40 per cent now in favor of Mr. Roosevelt. In the cities over 100,000 the drop is from 68 per cent in 1936 to 59 per cent today. The first indication that Ohio was among the New Deal backsliders came in 938 when Governor John E. Bricker, Republican, was elected, along with Robert A. Taft, Republican, to the United States Senate.

It becomes more and more apparent that Mr. Roosevelt's strength lies in the larger cities, and the reason for this is that the larger cities have been the greater beneficiaries of the New Deal. The Kelly machine in Chicago, the Hague machine in New Jersey t,he Pendergast machine in Kansas City, Tammany in New York, and the Bridges machine in San Francisco, are dpulicated to a greater or lesser extent in all large cities. The Bridges machine in San Francisco, may be a new thought, to many readers of this column, but when one observes the iron grip Harry Bridges maintains upon all San Francisco shipping, and for that matter upon the entire coast, one is forced to the conclusion that his is one of the most vicious and smoothest working machines in the New Deal arsenal. His immunity from departation under Ma Perkins, if he is influenced by ordinary human emotions, should make him so intensely grateful to the New Deal that he will undertake delivery of San Francisco in November to the New Deal free of cost to the State Democratic central committee.

However, San Francisco, which has resolutely voted down municipal ownership of electric light and power, eight times in a row, is bitterly resentful of Secretary Ickes' ukase, that like it or not, the city must vote either to buy the P. G. & E. distributing system, or must erect a new system of its own, in order to directly utilize Hetch Hetchy power, which the city maunfactures and sells to the P. G. & E. for $2,000,000 a year. The tax payers of the city, and the ratio of tax payers to non-tax payers in San Francisco is unusually high, are incensed at Fuehrer Ickes demands, and it is just possible in November San Francisco may dump the New Deal, Don Quixote along with Sancho Panza.

As we ponder the New Deal and seek for phrases to define in simple terms its effect on the body politic, we think of a fat man's indigestion. He has sat him down to an expensive feast consisting of sweet pickles, cloying, saccharine foods of great variety, and a miscellany of tidbits and rich condiments. Now the fat man is suffering an inferno of indigestion. He repents this gargantuan banquet. His innards writhe, his gorge half rises, gas forms in the kinks and folds of his oppressed intestines. Thus the people groan under an expensive debt ridden load of undigested reforms. Rising from this vast indigestible, unpleasant mixture, is a rasping, vinegary burp. That, if you please, is Secretary Ickes speaking.

Mobley, Cassidy and Paine Elected Republican Committeemen

Nevada City district voters at Tuesday's primary election were decisive in their approval of the return of Cary Arbogast to the board of supervisors and in the assembly district race followed the trend of others in the county as well as district in giving Incumbent Allen G. To Have Anniversary—

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Haddy of this city will celebrate their 36th wedding anniversary by attending the state fair in Sacramento next week. Annually the couple celebrate their wedding anniversary in that manner.

TWELVE RURAL SCHOOLS WILL OPEN MONDAY

Many of the rural schools of the county will open next week, County Superintendent of Schools Walter Carlson announced today.

The schools opening next week are Birchville, Chicago Park, Cherokee, Floriston, Lime Kiln, North Bloomfield, Pleasant Valley, Spenceville, Truckee, Washington, Rough and Ready and North San Juan.

Superintendent Carlson stated the Indian Springs, Union Hill, Bear River and Wolf schools will open on September 10th.

Nevada City and Grass Valley schools, in addition to Clear Creek Forest Springs, French Corral, Kentucky Flat, Oakland, Mariposa, You Bet and Mooney Flat, opened last Monday.

The Blue Tent school went into session on July 8th but the pupils there will have a long winter vacation.

The enrollment at Nevada City schools has passed the 800 mark and in Grass Valley the enrollment was more than 1600 at the high and the elementary schools.

COUNTY BOOTH AT STATE FAIR IS OUTSTANDING

Attractive Display Arranged For Eleven Day Exhibition

Nevada County's booth at the state fair, which opens in Sacramento tomorrow and continues for eleven days, is expected to be one of the most attractive displays in the California Building.

W. W. Esterly of Grass Valley, secretary of the California Hydraulic Mining Association, and L. G. Lageson of this city, county agricultural commissioner, left today for Sacramento to complete the setting up the booth for tomorrow's opening.

The Nevada County booth will be twice the size of the display of previous years. Half of the space will be devoted to agricultural products and the other half to mining.

Esterly stated there will be approximately $20,000 worth of nuggets and high grade gold specimens from this county on display. Most of the nuggets and the ore specimens have never been previously shown.

The agricultural products shown will be mainly apples and pears. Forage crops grown in this county will also be displayed.

The booth will be attractively lighted. A roof of red apples over the agricultural display is expected to be one of the beautiful features of the booth.

Esterly will show motion pictures of hydraulic and quartz mining operations at two hour intervals during the fair.

CRYING TOWELS FOR GOV. OLSON

"Scoop" Thurman, who won reelection two to one in his big district of six counties on the Democratic ballot, against the Olson candidate, says that the unpurged, unregenerate members of the economy bloc of the state legislature, are going to send Governor Olson a package of crying towels. Actually as latest reports now show, the governor's purge eliminated but two of the sturdy group which refused him the extra millions he demanded for relief and for his schemes of production for use. These two were offset by the defeat of several Olsonites in the south.

The tally, as Thurman gets the returns from his six counties, shows that on the Democratic ballot he received 10,666 votes as against Marlor's 5,413. On the Republican ballot Thurman was unopposed. The tax payers of Thurman's district are rejoicing in this victory which means that Thurman has been elected in the primary.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Davidson of the Moores Flat district were Nevada City visitors yesterday. Davidson is doing considerable development work at the Sadie D and Bertie L Mines at Moores Flat.

Budget Is Approved By Board

Tax Rate For Fiscal Year Is Set at $1.60 Per $100 Valuation

The Nevada County Board of Supervisors, in session here today, approved the 1940-41 budget, setting the tax rate of $1.60 per $100 valuation.

All members of the board were present. Immediately after giving its final approval of the budget, the supervisorial body began canvassing the primary election votes.

The tax rate set by the board is six cents lower than last year. Under the general fund, the tax rate of which is $1.20, the county will spend $461,230 during the 1940-41 fiscal year. Charities and corrections takes up most of that amount. Under charities and corrections, which includes maintenance of the county hospital, welfare administration, and aid to needy children, aid to needy blind, aid to need aged, general relief indigents, probation officer, care of juvenile court wards, reform schools, homes for feeble minded examination and care of insane, burial of indigents and veterans cemetery care and care of crippled children, a total of $349,311 has been allowed in the budget. That is approximately $49,000 more than last year.

Salary Rate 30 Cents

The budget sets the tax rate under the salary fund at 30 cents. For salaries $60,435 will be expended, slightly more than $4,000 over last year's expenditure.

Total of $12,291 was budgeted for junior college tuition, which adds six cents to the tax rate. The amount allowed for veterans buildings in the county was $5,076, the taxation rate on which is four cents.

Although the county will expend $539,332 during the fiscal year, only $228,705 must be raised by taxation. Various state and federal grants supply the remainder.

In the first road district, which is comprised of the Nevada City area, $1,000 has been budgeted for grading and oiling the Gracie Road and $1,000 budgeted for oiling the Willow Valley road.

In the second road district, the Grass Valley area, amounts of $800 are in the budget for grading and oiling the Butler Subdivision, Union Hill Subdivision and Cedar Ridge Subdivision roads. For improving the Sunrise subdivision $300 has been budgeted and $400 appropriated for the Sierra Vista subdivision.

In the third road district $1,500 has been appropriated for the realigning of the Graniteville road and a like amount for the realignment of the Grizzly Hill road.

In the fourth road district, $1,750 has been budgeted for grading and oiling the Spenceville road and a similar sum for grading and oiling the McCourtney road.

California's Birthday

Ninety years have passed since, on a fine 9th of September, the roughest, lustiest baby of 'em all was born into the Union of States—an infant babbling in a Mex-Indian jargon, clutching a six-gun in one fist and yellow nuggets in the other. That was but yesterday, as nations reckon time—and it's with astonishment and some natural envy that dozens of older commonwealths now look upon the stripling who has passed them in wealth, population and importance. For California has grown in all ways and lost in none. The gold that drew men 90 years ago is produced as lavishly as ever in the Gold Rush days. Oil and hydro-electric power have overcome the shortage of coal, so that manufacturing now matches strides with farming, mining and commerce. Sixth among the States in population, California is behind only New York and Pennsylvania in total income—which means that the rate of production of natural wealth has even exceeded a rate of population increase that has doubled the state's population in two decades.

The California past is pleasant to look back upon. No ravages of war have touched her soil. Save for the San Francisco disaster in 1906, no misfortune of catastrophic proportions has visited the Golden State. Her destiny, by natural resources and geographical position, is to become the center of the world's greatest civilization, when peace finally spreads over the vast areas of the Pecific. And her seven million sons and daughters have special reasons in this year, when life is a thing of dread and poverty in so much of the universe to express a most hearty "Happy Birthday, California!" on the 90th anniversary of Admission Day.—Contributed.

Hatchet-Man Ickes

We have had many public scold in American political life of recent years—arrogant, small-bore men, for the most part, who have sought to cover up their own shortcomings by pointing the finger of scorn at others. But none has quite come up (or down) to the level of Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes.

Hatchet-Man Ickes, as he is known in official Washington, has labored unceasingly, trying to cut other men down to his own size. And having failed in that, he has become more self-willed and wrathful with every passing month—abusing the newspapers, shouting bombast into the microphone, excoriating more successful men with bitter invective.

Mr. Ickes, in fact, has become a tragic example of the damage that results from placing a small man in a big job. His recent intemperate outbursts are an affront to the American people, whom he is supposed to serve. And regardless of who may be elected president we can't help but hope that Mr. Ickes will be retired to the small niche he occupied in private life before he climbed on the public payroll. He sounds like something out of a bad dime novel.—Contributed.

Trotsky: Genius Of Discord

Life stories of most persons contain paradoxes. A lifelong coward dies an inspired hero. A miser gives away his hoard. Men and women step out of character somewhere along the line. Leon Trotsky was an exception. He was born a revolutionist—a hater of the ordered, accepted way of life; and he lived and died a revolutionist without the slightest deviation from his path. When losing out in the struggle for dominance with Stalin, he fled Russia, Trotsky fomented trouble elsewhere. He was driven in turn from Turkey, from France, from Norway—because in each place that gave him a haven Trotsky conspired to overthrow the government that was his protector. He was conspiring on the day final disaster struck him—just as he was conspiring on the first day he was old enough to know that government and laws exist as man-made rules for conduct.

Consistently, too, he asked for no quarter as he gave none. He caused the cowardly, brutal murders of vast numbers of his countrymen. He in his turn was murdered in brutal cowardly fashion. He didn't even express moral resentment at Stalin for having caused his assassination. He would have dealt Stalin the same dose, had he the power.

Trotsky was the outstanding modern genius of pure discord. Perhaps his consistency was the major ingredient in that genius, superior even to his exceptional intelligence. Through his successes and failures, in life and in death, Trotsky was murderously, consistently —discordant.—Contributed.

INGENIUS METHOD USED BY FOREST ENGINEER IN LOOKOUT CONSTRUCTION

Experience in high lead logging proved valuable to Tahoe Forest bridge engineer, H. P. Birkinbine in devising ways and means of getting construction materials to the top of Sierra Buttes for the building of a new lookout shelter there. Materials could be packed by horse to a point about 600 feet airline from the top of the Buttes. From there the job looked almost hopeless. Birkinbine found someone with a small drum and 500 feet of steel cable, a base was manufactured on which the drum was fastened then a transmission from an old automobile and lastly the gasoline engine disconnected from Birkinbine's concrete vibrator. The resulting power hoist is not listed in Who's Who of the equipment world, Birkinbine says, but he figured that it will whiz lumber and steel up the 45 degree highline just as the highline whizzes immense logs to the mill in the north woods.

The steel and wood lookout shelter being constructed is to make habitable the summit of Sierra Buttes during weather which heretofore would drive the lookout man to the small building under the Buttes where observation was not quite as good as on top.

Sam Kasper of Grass Valley has been the Sierra Buttes lookout man for the past six years according to E L Baxter, in charge of fire control for the forest, and has built up a remarkable record No guilty smoke within Kasper's horizon escapes him and recently his report on a fire in Nevada City reached central dispatcher E. M. Stone, just as the automatic fire alarm was ringing in the Nevada City fire house.

The new lookout shelter is being built under the Civilian Conservation Corps program and a spike camp has been established under the summit for the CCC enrollees who are working on the project. Paul Cloquet, expert in wood and steel construction, is in direct charge of the project under Engineer Birkinbine. Forest Supervisor Guerdon Ellis is planning to cooperate with Lieut. Stricklin, commanding officer of Hobart Mills CCC camp, from which camp the enrollees working on the project are detached, in promoting a public dedication of the lookout upon completion of the shelter. Heretofore the lookout has been the mecca of several hundred interested sightseers in spite of the rather arduous and hardous means of ascent. With the improved foot trail and improved ladder from the base of the rock to the top Ellis believes that many people will be interested in making the hike to the summit after the public dedication at the CCC spike camp.

SUSPENDED SENTENCE FOR RIVER MINER

Oliver Carter, miner of the South Fork of the Yuba River south of Bloomfield, was given a 30 day suspended jail sentence and placed on probation for six months when he pleaded guilty to a charge of depositing ashes where danger of fire.

Carter was taken into custody by Law Enforcement Officer J. D. Rafferty of the Tahoe National Forest Service after the hot ashes caused a fire which burned approximately 8 acres on August 21st.

The case was handled by Justice of the Peace Charles Morehouse of Grass Valley, sitting for George Gildersleeve of Nevada Township, who is ill.

Superior Judge Jones Sets New Record In Winning At Primary

George L. Jones recalled today his election as superior judge at Tuesday's primary has been the fourth time he has been named to the position, a record in Nevada County Superior Court annals.

Judge Jones had no opposition Tuesday but the voters of the county gave him a huge complimentary vote. He polled more votes than any other candidate.

The judge served for three six year terms on the Nevada County Superior bench before retiring. When Raglan Tuttle was appointed to the appellate court, Judge Jones was selected by Former Governor Frank Merriam to fill the court position vacated here

Although Judge Jones is proud of the record he has set, a record, by the way, which few men have ever equalled or surpassed, he said it makes him feel pretty old.

Politically Speaking

By JOHN W. DUNLAP
United Press Staff Correspondent

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 29 — (UP) —The middle of September is likely to be a busy time in Sacramento, if tentative ideas of some influential politicians materialize to combine a special session of the legislature with the party conventions and the meetings of the state central committees.

John W. Dunlap.

There is a special session of the legislature scheduled for Dec. 2 but the apparent need for more relief funds next month increases the probability that the lawmakers will be called back to Sacramento quicker. Since most of the legislators will be here anyway for the party conventions on September 19 and the state central committees the next day, it has been suggested that the legislature be called for the same period.

The interim committee on relief indicated its willingness to hold the extra session if the need were proved that present funds will run out. Auditors are checking the state's books but the committee readily admits that the current allocations were based on a 50,000 caseload, which is far below the actual relief load at this time.

The likely course of action would be for the legislature to meet briefly, possibly for only a day or two, and "unfreeze" funds earmarked for the final quarter of the year. This would permit the SRA to finance the caseload until December, possibly January, by which time the lawmakers would be coming back to tackle the subject again.

There is another little relief matter that might prove a headache. The SRA borrowed $350,000 from the state emergency fund to finance the surplus commodities food stamp plan, which loan will be paid back from some future relief appropriation. But if the rest of the emergency fund is depleted by the normal expenditures and it becomes necessary to ask the SRA for redemption, the food stamp system would be jeopardized.

The success of the stamp plan in disposing of surplus commodities would be almost certain to call for prompt action on the part of the legislature to fix up the loan. Meantime, officials handling the emergency fund purse strings have their fingers crossed.

The subject of relief, incidentally, has been the biggest headache of the Olson alministration. Two previous administrations have been "pressured" out of office and No. 2, Sydney Rubinow, is currently engaged in an inter-office dispute with other administrative officials, particularly Walter Ballou, Governor Olson's assistant secretary.

Ballou has been handling the patronage end of the governor's office and admitted before the legislature relief committee that he had been instrumental in much of the SRA policy and personnel matters. He was frankly critical of Rubinow's regime, told of carrying complaints to the governor.

It is no secret that Rubinow's brusk divorcement of politics from the SRA stepped on some sore toes. His enforced layoff of 1300 employes struck at Democrats and Republicans alike, particularly many of those in the upper salary brackets who had been added to the payroll for political purposes. The SRA has been the chief agency unaffected by civil service and was the administration's principal source of patronage to deserving party members.

The governor has expressed his confidence in Rubinow, who has come considerably closer to conciliation with the hostile members of the legislature than his predecessors. Rubinow laid down the law to pressure groups and ordered his subordinates to act likewise. His frankness and directness in dealing with relief matters has been refreshing to all concerned.

Empress in New England

It is a far cry from the pomp and ceremony of "Schonbrunn", the great castle outside of Vienna where the Austrian emperor and his family spent the summer, to that simple white house on a New England village street where Zita, the last empress of that ill-fated country, and seven of her eight children have found refuge.

Even the small, twelfth-century castle in the Flemish village of Steenockerzell, twelve miles from Brussels where this family of royal exiles had been living since 1929, smacked of the elegance which used to surround the Hapsburgs wherever they went. There was a moat surrounding the castle and a drawbridge which was not lowered until a visitor's credentials had satisfied the retainer who stood guard at the medieval bridge.

But up in Royalston, Massachusetts only a low, white fence of wooden palings separates the last of the great Hapsburg families from the world. And the Empress Zita expects her younger children to attend American universities this fall! That will be better than private tutors, she believes. It is important for them to know the people of this country and how they live.

And what will the young refugees, who have lived in precarious exile all their lives, think of a country where people say what they please no matter if they are disagreed with —where newspapers report both sides of a controversy—where young people follow their own inclinations in choosing a career?

Had they been born 25 years earlier, being Hapsburgs they would have had unusual privileges, honor, wealth. But never would they have had such liberty as will be theirs in America where freedom rests on a tripod of representative democracy, civil and religious liberties and free enterprise; where the individual is more important than the state.

JUST WONDER-IN'

I wonder when in ancient times
Herr chieftains held tprannic sway,
If that great toll, called ignorance
Was used as freely as today.

I wonder if you remember that last week I promised to tell the legend of the Raven, totem pole of the Thlinget tribe of Southeast Alaska. As you read it you will most certainly feel that, "there is nothing new under the sun."

The totem pole of the Raven clan of the Thlingets is one of the most interesting. It is read from top to bottom; the top figure is the Spirit or God of life in whose keeping is a box containing the sun, moon, stars and day. Wishing to keep his people in perpetual darkness, he guards this possession with unceasing care.

The third figure represents the daughter of the Spirit of Life, and through her in due time, was given to the people light and all the illumination of the heavenly orbs. A small symbol upon her breast tells the story of the Immaculate Conception.

The fourth figure is that of the Raven. Many stories and legends of the Thlinget people center about this great leader who is called the Giver of Light.

The fifth figure upon this interesting pole is that of the all wise man—known to the natives as the Uninquisitive Little Old Man. To him was given the power to foretell coming events.

The God of Life, jealous of the box which contained the treasures of light, set the Uninquisitive little old man to aid in safeguarding it. For ages, the Raven who wished to benefit his people tried to gain possession of the box—but all in vain.

Finally, a series of events engendered a great idea in the mind of one young Raven and by the exercise of certain miraculous powers, he became the grand son of the God or Spirit of Life.

From the beginning of his new life he strove to gain possession of the precious box. Eventually, he found that his grandfather could not bear to hear him cry. Therefore, he began crying for everything about him. After a time, he began crying for the box and its contents. At length his grandfather surrendered and gave the child the moon and stars, whereat Young Raven was greatly pleased. Again, he cried; finally he was given the sun and day—and with them he flew away into the sky knowing that no longer would his beloved people walk in darkness and the gloom of night.

This legend of the Raven totem as told me by Kadashan Hall, charming and highly intelligent member of the Raven clan, contains much interesting detail which for lack of space, I am unable to repeat here.

However, the brief outline given, tends to remind us of many legends which we have thought were the exclusive heritage of what we unthinkingly call "the superior races of mankind." We are also reminded that the great struggle between light and darkness, ignorance and understanding, right and might is raging still with greater intensity and ferocity than at any other time in the world's long, troubled history. Perhaps it will be the great privilege of our own America, to find the light which shall lead the warring clans into the paths of peace, order and rectitude, which they have for a time so wantonly forsaken.

Uncle Silas says: "It's just a matter of mentality. If a man can't think for himself, how is he to tell the difference between black and white. —A. MERRIAM CONNER.

SPORTS

PLAYOFF IN SACRAMENTO VALLEY LEAGUE WILL COMMENCE SUNDAY

It's Grass Valley vs. Chico in Series To Determine This Year's Champions In Valley Baseball Circuit

The first game of the playoff series for the Sacramento Valley League baseball championship will be played at Watt Park in Grass Valley on Sunday. The playooff will be a two out of three game series between Grass Valley and Chico.

Preparations are being made to seat a record crowd at the ball diamond. As usual, many Nevada City fans will occupy seats in the stands.

Unusual interest is being shown in the series, inasmuch as both teams are practically of equal strength. The Chico Colts boast of a stronger pitching staff but what the Miners lack in twirling they make up in hitting.

Figures show the Miners are the strongest hitting club in the league. If Manager Archie Camubell of the Grass Valley squad can hold the Colts in check, it is believed Miner sluggers can be depended upon to drive across enough runs to win.

Second Game at Chico

The second game of the playoff series will be played at Chico a week from Sunday and if a third game is necessary it will probably be played on a neutral diamond.

Representatives of the two clubs met in Marysville Tuesday night to arrange plans for the playoff.

Steve LeGault has been announced as Manager Larry Gillick's choice to pitch for Chico. Boone, who scouted the Miners in last Sunday's game at Redding, will be behind the plate.

Ken Brock will receive for Campbell. Dick Hoskins will be at first; Vernon Madan at second; Ned Fusaro at third; Syl Gregory at short and Charles Lamphier, Marz Dutar and George Cooper in the outfield.

Last of Night Lights

The stately Tower of the Sun, the picturesque Arch of Triumph shown illuminated on Treasure Island, a familiar sight to many, but a view that will be no more when the lights are dimmed September 29 at the Golden Gate International Exposition.

CONTRACT GIVEN FOR DAM WORK

Engineer Vernon L. Glaze stated in Auburn a $3,000 contract has been awarded to the Diamond Drill Construction Company of Los Angeles for rock drilling work on the proposed new site for the Ruck-A-Chucky debris dam on the Middle Fork of the American River.

The site on which the work will be undertaken is located three quarters of a mile downstream from the original site, which was abandoned following a landslide last winter.

About two months' work is required under the contract, Glaze said, following which the army engineers will be able to decide whether the new site can be used.

Preliminary tunneling work has been under way for several weeks by the engineer's office with ten men employed on the project. This number is expected to be doubled when the contractors begin work immediately after Labor Day.
